Birthdays, every kid loves them. They just want toys but that is not what they are about. My brother was in college far from home and his birthday was coming soon. I thought he was not coming home, but I was wrong. I was so happy to see him. I was glad he came back. So now you know that it is not about toys.

Birthdays can bring people together.

The most special birthday I can remember is when my family and I went to Tweetsie Railroad. It was in October, so they had all their Halloween decorations up. My favorite memory is when we went through the haunted house and my mom almost stomped on an actor's head who popped out from under a bed. It scared me at the time, because I wasn't even eight yet, but afterwards, she told me and I laughed.

It was the best birthday memory ever, and I remember it just like it was yesterday. Sarah and I were in the back of the car talking randomly and listening to the car hum down the road. We pulled into Alisha's driveway, and we sprang out of the car, skipping steps going onto the porch. We banged on the door and were immediately greeted by Alisha. She was surprised to see us so early - even in the middle of the afternoon. We had to go to her volleyball practice, and we had so much fun there. When we got back to her house, everyone was there and we all ate pizza and talked. Afterwards we played Just Dance, and we danced until it hurt. We gobbled down cinnamon rolls and exclaimed about how fun the day has been. When it was time for us to go, everyone said goodbye, and we jumped on the porch and on the drive home, we talked about how awesome this day has been and how this is the night we will always remember.

My favorite birthday was when I was 8 years old. I went to Chuck E. Cheese. I went into the ticket blaster. I had a friend named Jaxynn that went in there with me. She caught a ticket that was worth 500 tickets, and I got another one for free. I got more than 1,000 tickets. I also had a pretty cake. The flowers were made out of icing and Oreos, and it had a mix of chocolate and vanilla.

My favorite present was a Shopkin Girl. It was my favorite because it was a City Shopkin Girl. It had two other Shopkins with it. One wore a sweatshirt with a green emerald and another wore a hat with a pretty rock.

This is why it's my favorite birthday.

My special birthday memory is from my last birthday. My family and I went to Connecticut for my aunt and uncle's anniversary. The day before my birthday, my aunt's friend and her daughter got me this wood owl. My Aunt Kelly has a duck and two dogs. She brought over her duck and her dogs. We looked at a lot of stuff from Dolly Parton's performing days and also saw Dolly Parton there. That is my special birthday memory - when I went to Dollywood.
